Paul Johnston's chord choices are inventive and fit the melodies beautifully. The typical form is to set the song once with an interesting harmonization and added syncopations, then add an improvisatory section in which the tune is only implied but always recognizable. The third section returns to the song, but with a different harmonization. His arrangements of these wonderful standards incorporate stylistic elements of some of the great pianists of the last 60 years, including Bud Powell, Oscar Peterson, Bill Evans, Chick Corea, Keith Jarrett and others.
